The money situation ought to begin to ease up in Ohio pretty soon, if Hanna has as much money to spend as it is said he has.

The Queen of England weighs 224 pounds, which may account for her slowness in moving off the throne. Large bodies move slowly.

The latest kink in the yacht line is a boat with sails that open and close like a fan, which, it is claimed, is a great improvement on the old style sail.

A Kentucky jury which is trying a murder case, is now in a condition to render an impartial verdict. They took in a full supply of fire arms and ammunition.

With "divorces made easy" as they are in Chicago one idiot in that town has been jailed for having twelve wives. Perhaps he was one of those fellows who do not read the papers.

That microbe discovered in Colorado is "nearly all mouth." But this is about the only resemblance it bears to Mrs. Lease, of Kansas, or to some of the fellows they send to Congress out there.

The business outlook in Ohio is improving. A man sold his wife there the other day for $100, while over in Missouri the best a man could do who had more wife than he could manage was to swap her off for a mule.

The average Southern editor usually opposes lynching for a "nameless crime" when he writes, but when he talks he "deplores the necessity that exists," etc. The truth is that, under existing conditions, a majority of the white people of the South do not oppose lynching in extreme cases. The best evidence of this is the fact that a Southern jury that would convict a man charged with lynching a negro who had committed the most horrible crime known to civilization, would be a living curiosity.

New York, New Jersey, Delaware and other mosquito infested regions as far South as New Orleans, complain that the mosquitoes this year are not content to confine their business hours to the night as formerly, but, in miner's parlance, run a night and a day shift, and between them they get the average mortal down and make life miserable. The mosquitoes we have in this section are more considerate and on the whole behave quite respectably.

One of the managers of the Hanna campaign in Ohio says they will not make their hardest fight in the rural districts, but in the cities. Mark believes in concentrating his money where it can be used to the best advantage. He worked that racket pretty successfully in the last campaign and election.

People laugh at cranks who suggest the faith cure as a cure for disease. But they don't laugh at the fellows who suggest tariff taxation as a remedy for business depression, and a booster of prosperity. One is about as sensible and reasonable as the other.

Dr. Zertucha, the assassin of Gen. Maceo, who has for some time escaped public attention in consequence of his being in jail, is out again. Instead of getting that $50,000 Weyler put him in the fortress of Las Cabanas, from which he has just been released.

This is supposed to be a land of plenty, and New York is a city which has many benevolent and charitable institutions, but a man was picked up on the streets there the other night who had gone without nourishment so long that it was thought he would die.

At 25 cents a pound, which is the price demanded by packers for carrying stuff through the mountain passes in Alaska to the interior, the presumption is that the gold pursuers will not carry much old plunder with them.

Kansas farmers will have 50,000,000 bushels of wheat to sell this year, and the protectionists expect to have fat wallets to pick upon. After their picking under this tariff the wallets will be lean enough.

It took exactly twelve innings to decide the first game played yesterday by New York and Boston. Seymour and Sullivan both pitched good ball for their respective sides. In the second game the Giants had the Beaneaters going to the wall, when Seymour got airy and commenced to pitch "any old way" except in the way of the pan.

The Orioles, although winners, had the blues, and kept wrangling from the outset of the game, at the cost of three players being sent to the bench.

The Colonels yesterday pushed ahead of the Phillies.

LOCAL DOTS.

Items of Interest Gathered Here and There and Briefly Noted.

— Several townships in Brunswick goose-egged the special taxers, and they polled only 64 votes in the entire county.

— Mr. D. B. Stanland, a prominent citizen of Brunswick county, died at his residence in Shallotte township last Sunday.

— The schooner Bertha Louise, Capt. James, was placed in quarantine yesterday, being from a yellow fever port, Kingston, Jamaica.

— Mrs. J. J. Kelly, Fourth and Chesnut streets, has an orange tree that is bearing fruit. There are several green oranges on it and one ripe one.

— The Carolina Bicycle Club will give an excursion to Carolina Beach on the 17th. The programme of amusements will be exceptionally attractive.

— The "blast" from Senator Marion Butler's "bugle-horn" in favor of the special school tax doesn't seem to have been heard beyond his own piazza.

— The report of the New York dry goods market, given in the telegraphic department of the STAR this morning, is interesting. There was an advance in prices, with large sales.

— The Bonitz House was well filled with excursionists last night, swelling the total number of inmates to 430, a larger number than the Bonitz has ever accommodated at one time before.

— The Second Regiment Band held a most satisfactory rehearsal last night and were then invited up to the residence of Mr. Jas. E. Wilson, the leader, to enjoy a watermelon repast.

— Nothing could show more fully the weakness of the special taxers than the result of the election in New Hanover county. The total vote was as follows: Against the tax, 1,989; for the tax, 81.

— Reports from Camp Bruton, Carolina Beach, yesterday brought the news that the members of the Boys' Brigade were soldiering in fine style. Additional necessary supplies were sent down yesterday.

— The vote of Cross Creek township, Cumberland county, including Fayetteville, on the school tax was 895 against and 44 for. The total vote of the county was 2,803 against and 445 for. Good enough for Cumberland.

— Jacksonville Times: "The outlook for large crops in Onslow is very favorable, and unless something unforeseen shall occur within the next two weeks, the farmers will be in a better condition than for many years past."

— Isham Sweat, a well known colored barber of this city, died yesterday. He formerly lived in Fayetteville, and many years ago, when the Republican party was in power, he was a Representative in the Legislature from Cumberland county.

—Captain of Police Bob Green, who claims, and who stands ready to substantiate, the bicycle championship, is disgusted that his offer of $500 to the man who can beat him has not been accepted. But the cap. feels that such an offer is perfectly safe.

— Henry Smith and William Henry Harden, colored boys, who escaped from the guard house in this city a short time ago while a charge of larceny was pending against them, have been arrested at Jacksonville for breaking into and robbing a section house at Folkston.

— The Second Regiment Band and Zeb Vance Division Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias will meet in front of Castle Hall at 4.30 this afternoon and after the band renders one of its best selections it, with the Knights, will march in parade to the Seacoast depot.

— Let us ball anish schisms, divisions and strife from us and let us unite in the laudable enterprise of building up our city, and there is no better way to do this than in building factories and establishing enterprises to give our people work who are unable to procure employment.

— The STAR has at various times, particularly of late, called the attention of our business men to the importance of at least considering the merits of a system of merchants' excursions. It has also sent to some of the members of the Chamber of Commerce extracts from newspapers giving information on this subject.

— Wilmington merchants should not overlook the fact that the August crop report issued by the State Agricultural Department gives cotton the highest average on record for North Carolina. The condition of the crop compared with last year's is placed at 109¼. This means improved trade for this city.

More Goose Eggs.

The following are samples of the voting in Onslow on the special school tax: Northeast township—Against the tax, 89; for the tax, 0. Norton's—Against tax, 86; for tax, 0. Aman's Store—Against tax, 106; for tax, 0. Rocky Run—Against tax, 86; for tax, 0. Swansboro—Against tax, 74; for tax, 0.

The Grand Lodge, by a rising vote, expressed their sincere thanks to the management of Oceanic Hotel for their kind hospitality and care for its comfort, they having done all possible to make the visit a pleasant one; and also to Capt. Jas. M. McGowan for his assistance in making necessary arrangements. Also, to the railroad companies and the management of the steamer Wilmington for special reduced rates.

BASE BALL TO-DAY.

The A. C. L. and O. A. N. Teams Will Play at Hilton Park This Afternoon.

Admirers of base ball will have an opportunity of seeing a splendid game at Hilton park this afternoon between the A. C. L. and O. A. N. teams. It will be remembered that this is the second of the series of three games for the purse offered by the Street Railway Company, and as both teams are in better trim and more evenly matched than heretofore the game this afternoon bids fair to be unusually close and snappy. A great deal of interest has been taken, and the largest crowd of the season is expected this afternoon. The O. A. N. team has Zellers, the well known catcher, and expect him to play the "game of his life;" while the A. C. L. will have Schutte and "Sockalexis Jennings" Galloway, who will play their "usual game." Mr. Fred Pearsall will umpire.

A. C. L.—Oldham, catch; Bagg, pitch; Sinclair, first base; Galloway, second base; Schutte, third base; Schulken, short stop; Motte, left field; Taylor, (captain) centre field; Latta, right field.

O. A. N.—F. Zellers, pitch; Tate, catch; Orrell, (captain) first base; H. Moore, second base; J. Jackson, third base; Sweeney, short stop; G. James, left field; Myers, centre field; Stevenson, right field.

The game will be called at 4.30 p. m. Admission 25 cents; ladies free.

Excursionists.

The Greensboro excursionists were taken down the river and out to sea yesterday on the steamer Wilmington, leaving at 9.30 a. m. and returning at 5 p. m. At 6 o'clock the excursion party pulled out for home.

At 3.40 yesterday afternoon an excursion from Concord with 43 passengers arrived over the Wilmington and Weldon road. Many of them went to Wrightsville Beach, returning to spend the night in the city. The excursion is under the management of Mr. F. L. Robbins of Concord.

The Lexington excursion pulled in last night about half past 8 o'clock. A good number of the excursionists were taken on at Salisbury. The managers were Mr. D. R. Julian, of Salisbury, and Mr. J. G. Leonard, of Lexington. There were 410 passengers. They will go to Carolina Beach at 6 o'clock this morning. Later they will join the Concord excursionists on a trip out to sea on the steamer Wilmington, which will leave here at 9.30 o'clock.

SCHOOL TAX ELECTION.

The Official Vote of New Hanover and Pender Counties.

In strict compliance with the election law, Col. Jno. D. Taylor, Clerk of the Superior Court, proceeded at 12 o'clock yesterday "without delay" to add up the votes cast for and against schools in Tuesday's election. His figures show that in the city 1,122 votes were cast against the tax and 96 for tax; in the county 1,989 against tax and 81 for tax.

PENDER COUNTY.

A STAR correspondent, writing from Burgaw, gives a statement of the vote in Pender county as 1,691 against schools and 827 for schools, about 400 not voting. Rocky Point was the only township giving a majority for schools, the figures being 148 for and 108 against. One hundred and seventy votes were required, however, to show a majority of qualified voters according to the election returns of 1896.

Movements of the U. S. Cutter Morrill.

The U. S. revenue cutter Lot M. Morrill, which left Wednesday afternoon on a cruise, changed her plans and came up to the city again yesterday afternoon. Ice and other supplies were hurriedly taken aboard and the cutter was in a few minutes on her way down the river again. It was thought by some that she had orders to go south probably to Brunswick, Ga., or other points where filibusters are suspected to be operating, but no official statement to that effect could be obtained.

ODD FELLOWS.

The New Lodge Instituted Yesterday at Wallace by a Team from Wilmington.

The team of Wilmington Odd Fellows, who instituted a new lodge in Wallace Wednesday night, returned yesterday morning.

The team left for Wallace Wednesday night on the 7.15 o'clock Atlantic Coast Line train, and upon their arrival instituted, under the direction of District Deputy Grand Master Jas. T. King, of this city, and Grand Secretary B. H. Woodell, of Raleigh, instituted Good Will Lodge No. 792. Forty-three members, forty-one of whom had three degrees conferred upon them, composed the new lodge. An election of officers resulted as follows:

P. G.—M. P. Taylor.
N. G.—W. F. Murphy.
V. G.—W. M. Carr.
Secretary—LaFayette Southerland.
Treasury—H. F. Boney.
Chaplin—Rev. J. W. Noble.
R. S. to N. G.—J. D. Boney.
L. S. to N. G.—J. F. Barclay.
R. S. to V. G.—D. E. Boney.
L. S. to V. G.—Levi S. Wells.
Warden—J. E. Lamb.
Conductor—Dr. B. R. Graham.
I. G.—Herbert Smith.
C. G.—Henry Wells.
R. S. S.—L. B. Carr.
L. S. S.—R. H. Dempsey.

The above officers were installed by District Deputy Grand Master Jos. T. King, Deputy Grand Master Jas. M. McGowan, Grand Secretary B. H. Woodell, Grand Warden M. W. Jacobi and Grand Marshal J. J. Hopkins. The work of instituting the lodge, etc., was finished about 3 o'clock a. m.

Before leaving Wallace yesterday morning the visiting brethren were invited around to Mr. Boney's hotel and partook of a most sumptuous breakfast.

At 12.15 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. D. McL. Graham, Mrs. J. W. Boney, Mrs. J. L. Boney, Mrs. W. B. Pope and Mrs. J. E. Lamb served an elegant repast to the Odd Fellows, which was much enjoyed by all.

LIBRARY SOCIABLE.

A Delightful Entertainment Given Last Night at the Residence of Mr. W. E. Perdew.

A delightful and unique entertainment was given last night by the Young People's Organ Fund Society of Grace M. E. church, at the residence of Mr. W. E. Perdew, corner of Seventh and Walnut streets. It was called a Library Sociable. A list of the volumes represented and the young ladies representing them follows:

Fair Country Maid, Miss Louise Corbett; Bride of Lammermoor, Miss Camille Pennington; Webster's Dictionary, Miss Bennie Bagg; Aunt Joe's Scrap Bag, Miss Corinne King; A Woman in White, Miss Eva Willis; A Rose in Bloom, Miss Daisy King; A Bow of Orange Ribbon, Miss Nora Scott; The Lamplighter, Miss Keith Covington; Under Two Flags, Miss Henrie Shepard; Ruth, Miss Annie Taylor; Evangeline, Miss Nettie Davis; Violet, Miss Ethel Parmele; Esther, Miss Ophelia Northam.

At the conclusion of this part of the evening's enjoyment, Messrs. Frank and Keener Westbrook whistled some selections in their inimitable way, and Miss Annie Taylor sang a solo very pleasingly. Miss Fanny Corbett was the accompanist. Add to all this the delicious refreshments that were served and it will be seen how many opportunities there were for enjoyment.

But while the social feature was the main one and was a brilliant success, there was also a financial feature, the proceeds going to the organ fund of Grace M. E. Church. It was very gratifying that the amount realized was quite a good deal larger than was expected.

W. L. I. Team Contest.

The first of the series of target matches, arranged by the officers of the Wilmington Light Infantry to ascertain the best marksmen to compose a representative shooting team, took place at Hilton Park yesterday afternoon. The members of the company who competed met at the Armory at 5 o'clock and then went to Hilton. Each man was allowed five shots at the target with a possibility of scoring twenty-five points. The following is the score:

Willard, 18; Forshee, 16; Nash, 15; Calder, 10; Cooper, 15; Moore, 13; Wiggins, 16; Gillican, 17; Gore, 14; Bellamy, 8; Boatwright, 15; Willson, 18; Love, 9. Average, 13.

The next shoots of the series will take place on the 19th and 26th insts., and the five men making the highest average will constitute the team.

POPULIST COMMITTEE

ISSUE A LENGTHY DECLARATION TO MEMBERS OF THE PARTY.

Chief of Police of Raleigh Bound Over to Court for Permitting the Chowan County Rapist to Escape—Governor Russell Will Not Go to Virginia.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, August 13.

The Governor finds that it will be impossible for him to go to Ocean View, Va., Saturday. He hopes to make the trip later in the season. The Governor's Guard will likely go Saturday.

Mr. Edgar Penny, of Gomer, gets the Bingham scholarship for the fourth district. The examination was held yesterday and there were only three contestants.

The local taxation election was the biggest fiasco the State has witnessed in some time and Superintendent Mebane and the friends of the measure plainly show that they are thunder-struck.

A lively sensation was created here this morning when it became known that Mayor Russ had suspended Chief of Police J. M. Norwood. Mayor Russ was forced to take this action because Chief Norwood had released George Davis, the Chowan county rapist, in face of the fact that a habeas corpus order had been served on the Mayor by Sheriff Jones commanding him to deliver the body of Davis before Judge Clark to-day.

Mayor Russ said he acquainted Chief Norwood with the contents of the order and there was no excuse for his action in releasing Davis.

Norwood released Davis on the strength of a telegram from the authorities of Chowan, in which they stated that they could not identify Davis by the photographs sent them. Mayor Russ had Davis rearrested last night. The attorney of the rapist, Thos. P. Devereux, notified the Mayor to-day that the city would be sued for false arrest.

The executive committee of the People's party was in session until a late hour this morning. Absolutely nothing was done save the killing of a lot of time by tireless talkers. This morning the committee is to meet again.

A specially appointed committee is to submit a lot of high sounding resolutions, and of course these will be adopted.

[Special Star Telegram.]

George Davis, the negro charged with murder and rape, was released on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Clark. The Judge reprimanded Chief of Police Norwood and bound him over to court under $200 bond for permitting Davis to escape.

The Populist Executive Committee issued a lengthy declaration of principles, which was unanimously agreed upon. It says: "Your committee desire to congratulate the party on its wonderful success at the polls and its marvellous achievements for good. In the legislative, executive and judicial departments of county and State." The statement enumerates that the party has secured a free ballot, taken the public schools out of politics, given the right of local self government to each county, redeemed the State's educational, charitable and penal institutions from the thraldom of political bias and lifted the judiciary out of politics. It declares against other political parties, announcing that relief in national legislation must come through the People's party; admits that the party has made some mistakes, and calls for united action and thorough organization. It declares in favor of a reduction of freight and passenger rates to a low figure, corresponding with prices; condemns the 99 year lease and pledges the efforts of the party to have the same denounced; demands election of railway commissioners by popular vote, and renews declaration in favor of free coinage of silver. The address concludes: "To make good this declaration of principles, we shall in the next campaign use every lawful means to aid us in accomplishing these reforms, and to that end we invite the co-operation of men of all parties that we may be successful in the progression of this work."

CROPS IN EAST CAROLINA.

Report of the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

The North Carolina Department of Agriculture, in its Weekly Crop Bulletin, gives the following information concerning the Eastern district:

The past week was warm and dry up to the 6th, with temperature ranging at 95 degrees, and crops were beginning to suffer considerably from drought, but much needed rains fell on the 6th and 7th, greatly benefiting crops. The rainfall seems to have been general, the least amount occurring in the northeast portion, where rain is still needed. Farmers are now about through laying by crops. Cotton did not do well the first of the week, wilting some during the middle of the day, and shedding forms on light lands, but generally the crops is now fine; good stand, stout stalk, well limbed and fruiting exceptionally well, while the amount of shedding so far has been very small. Corn has been cut off some by drought, but is now doing well. Some fodder from early corn has been stripped. Tobacco curing well and with good color. Peas, peanuts, sweet potatoes, turnips, are all good.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

[Kansas City Star.]

Artesian wells are now pouring a never-ending flood of subterranean water upon the earth's surface in nearly every State located within the well defined limits of the artesian well bases of this continent. From British America to the Rio Grande the busy drill has penetrated the varied strata in search of water lying under a pressure sufficient to raise it to the light of day. In some localities, notably in Utah, a flow has been secured at a depth of less than 400 feet. In other places thousands of dollars have been expended in boring 3,000 or even 4,000 feet toward the center of the earth without results.

The average depth at which water is secured seems to be about 1,400 feet and such a well under ordinary circumstances costs between $2,500 and $3,000. This is with the improved machinery and transportation facilities of modern days. Deprived of these, well-boring becomes expensive to the point of impracticability.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, Aug. 13, 1897

THE BIMETALLIC COMMISSION FARCE.

This is the pet phrase with which the gold organs in this country refer to the bimetallic commission now in Europe. As far as the success of the commission is concerned we have as little faith in it as any of them, and we have not the slightest confidence in the sincerity of the motives that inspired the movement for that commission, and its appointment. The movement for the commission made by Senator Wolcott in the Senate was a political dodge, and its appointment by President McKinley was a political expedient. Mr. Wolcott introduced the resolution by virtue of which the commission was established, without any feeling of assurance that it would amount to anything, but he was one of the Senators representing a silver State who stood on the St. Louis platform in the election and felt bound by the pledge which committed the party to endeavor to promote international bimetallism.

To carry out this pledge, at least in its initial steps, he offered that resolution as an evidence of good faith. The resolution having passed, Mr. McKinley who was elected upon the same platform, could not have done otherwise than appoint the commission, although he doubtless had not the remost idea that it would accomplish anything in the way of securing "international bimetallism," for at that time all there was to go upon was the agitation which was being carried on in Europe, but no European government had been approached and no one in this country knew what the sentiments of European governments might be upon that question. It was thought that some of them might fall in if Great Britain would co operate, but there was then not the slightest intimation that Great Britain would and all the assertions now that it may are mere speculation, based on no authoritative source, and must be taken with due allowance.

But assuming that the commission may accomplish nothing should that be a cause of sneering at it, and of rejoicing by the gold advocates? Have they not all professed to desire the largest possible use of silver, consistent with the preservation of our currency on a stable basis? Have not the Republican party and the Democratic party both declared for that? Is there a prominent Republican or Democrat in the country who has not subscribed to that declaration? There is not a Republican or Democrat between the two oceans who one year ago would have admitted that he was not a bimetallist and did not desire the greatest use of silver as money consistent with the preservation of our finances on a sound basis.

They have both contended that the only effective way to do this was by concert of action among the leading commercial nations of Europe, and by agreement as to the ratio for the coinage of silver, to the end that each nation might coin as much as it saw fit. If this was the only way, as they contended, by which bimetallism could be restored, why, if they ever were honest in their professions of bimetallism, do they now sneer at a commission constituted in pursuance of the resolution passed to carry out the pledge of the Republican party and pronounce it a farce? In their estimation it may be a farce. Evidently that is what they would like to make it, for they have taken a long stride in the direction of gold monometallism since the last election and have thrown off the mask which they then wore.

Every honest bimetallist, regardless of his past party affiliations, would regret the failure of this commission whether he had faith in it in the beginning or not, for every honest bimetallist wants to see that question settled one way or the other and that with as little red tape as possible. They want to see international agreement if that be possible for that will be the best way to settle it, but they want to see a decision as to this commission, to learn whether it be possible or not, or if anything is to come of it, so that we can discuss this question on its merits as far as our country is concerned, that we may act upon it for ourselves.

If we are to be tied to the tail of Europe and must conform our money system to hers then it is time that we should know it so that the American people can express their opinion on that subject and say whether they are willing to be thus tied. If this commission be a farce as pronounced by the gold monometallists and prove a failure, as they take for granted, then the matter will be settled as far as international agreement goes and the issue will be made straight and unequivocal between gold monometallism and bimetallism, with little doubt as to what the result will be. The sooner that issue is made the better it will be, for the sooner that question will be settled which must be settled some time.

MINOR MENTION.

The Louisville Courier Journal is one of the most rabid gold organs in this country. In its zeal it sometimes goes so far as to make itself ridiculous. Here is a sample:

"If Bryan had been elected and the Free Silver programme had been carried out, the American farmer would be getting forty-four-cent dollars for his breadstuffs and everybody else would be dead broke, the public debt repudiated, the honor of the country degraded, and, perhaps, social and political anarchy from one end of the land to the other. However, Bryan was not elected."

What nonsense. If Bryan had been elected the farmer would be getting precisely the same kind of dollars for his breadstuffs that he is getting now, but more of them, because with the free coinage of silver there would be a stimulus to industries, wages would go up and there would be an improvement in the conditions all along the line. There would be an increased home demand for foodstuffs and the farmer would not be dependent to the same extent on the foreign markets that he is now. This would raise prices and put more money in the pockets of the farmers. Before the election they called them "50 cent dollars;" now they call them "44 cent dollars." But these 44-cent dollars go among the people as the 50 cent dollars did then, and they buy as much as a gold dollar will in this country. If Bryan had been elected they would buy as much as gold dollar would then, and they wouldn't be 44 cent dollars (as they are now called) but 100-cent dollars, which the law would pronounce them. This talk about everybody else (but the farmer) being "dead broke," repudiation, national dishonor, anarchy and all that rot is too nonsensical and out of place in a journal making any pretence to reason and respectability.

The New York Sun has recently been throwing some light on the pension expenditures paid by the Government, and from the books of the Treasury shows an aggregate paid out since the close of the war to the end of the last fiscal year amounting to the enormous sum of $2,004,172,841. The exhibits by the Sun have evoked comment from the Northern press, many of which are not backward in condemning this monstrous fraud upon the people. In commenting upon it the Philadelphia Times, the loyalty of whose editor to the cause of the Union cannot be questioned, says:

"Our pensions paid since the close of the war in 1865 to the close of the fiscal year 1896-7, aggregate $3 004 172 841.

"The entire cost of maintaining the army and navy during the four years of our civil war was only $3,027,793,891, or about one-third more than has been paid in pensions since the war closed. It is reasonable to assume that on our present pension basis the country will pay more for pensions than it paid for the entire cost of four years of war.

"A generation after the war closed, the number of pensioners on the pay roll of the Government is nearly 250,000 larger than the number of soldiers and sailors actually engaged in the war at any one time from its beginning to its close.

"If these pensions were entirely honest there would be less discontent among those who pay the cost of them, but it is a well-known fact that a very large portion of them are dishonest, and tens of millions are paid annually to those who rendered no special service to the Government and have no just claim upon its bounty for pensions. The one important duty the soldiers of the country have not performed to themselves is that of purging the pension list of bummers and pretenders."

If, as the Times says, these pensions were paid to only the deserving and needy no one would complain, for every government ought to recognize the services of the men who came at its call, and care for those who in its service sustained injuries that incapacitated them to take care of themselves, but when politics are behind the pensions and figure more than the soldiers do, and the people are plundered that parties may get votes, then the whole system simply becomes a colossal fraud, that no language is capable of fitly denouncing. And that's what our pensioning system has become.

The middle-of-the-road Pops seem to have held the reins and the whip in the recent Ohio State convention and in accordance with the eternal fitness of things nominated crank Coxey for Governor. Aside from the law of affinity by which one similar seeks another the only way in which we can account for the nomination of Coxey is on the presumption that being a man of some means it was thought that he might shell out and furnish some of the needful to lubricate the machine for the campaign, which with what Hanna may contribute would supply the needful. Judging from the report of the proceedings Hanna seems to have gotten in some of his fine work before the convention met, for it is not likely that a member of the convention would have pointedly made the charge of bribery that Mr. Witt, of Cleveland, did without some pretty good foundation. There wouldn't have been any wit in that. The reference of the investigating resolution to the committee, to report to the State committee, means that it will be strangled. As we see it the action of this convention in nominating a ticket led by a man like Coxey (which was effected only after a big rumpus that bordered on a riot) is good for the Democratic party, as it relieves it of an encumbrance, and an alliance that would do it more harm than good. Now the Democrats can conduct their own campaign in their own way without any handicapping associations.

We quote the following from a gold organ: "A grapevine special from Japan says that the Japanese Government is getting a little shaky on the 32 to 1 ratio of coinage adopted several months ago to go into effect in October. The Minister of Finance does not know where the thing will go to by that time, and he does not know whether or not it will stay there when it gets there at that time." All of which, if true, shows what a fool Japan was when she went into that business.

Gov. Bushnell, of Ohio, is just waking up to the conclusion that there was something terribly wrong about that lynching of a negro some time ago at Urbana in his State, and now wants the mayor of the town and the sheriff of the county removed for dereliction in failing to prevent the lynching bee. It may be incidentally remarked that the colored brother is a pretty numerous voter in Ohio and that Governor Bushnell is a candidate for re-election.

They have become desperate in New Jersey over the mosquito question, and finally when some one reminded them that pouring oil on the waters would bring them relief, they dumped three or four barrels of kerosene in the swamps, since when the mosquitoes have become disgusted at this treatment and migrated. Now the people in these parts can breath without inhaling a swarm of mosquitoes and eat their meals without munching a peck or two.

The next break will be for the Tussey mountain, about twenty five miles from Altoona, Pa., where they have discovered gold quartz said to be worth from $500 to $600 a ton.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Elizabeth City Carolinian: Just as we go to press we learn that His Honor Charles C. Pool, mayor, died this (Wednesday) morning. He has long been in failing health.

— Pender Star: There is a large trade on the coast of Pender in diamond back terrapins. They bring $40 per dozen as small as six inches in diameter. There is a rigid law against catching them until December 1st, but it is being violated daily.

— Fayetteville Observer: The Southern Express Company yesterday forwarded sixty crates of Mt. Airy apples consigned to parties in Charleston, S. C. In a short time the traffic in these mountain apples will become enormous, so Mr. Crosswell, route agent of the Express Company, informs us.

— Washington Progress: An injunction has been issued against the public graded school here upon the ground that the special statute was not legally passed and that the election is illegal. —— The largest mortgage ever recorded in this county was put upon the records last week. It was made by the Roanoke Railway and Lumber Company to the New Jersey Trust Company for $60,000 and filled twenty-three pages on the record book.

— Winston Sentinel: T. C. Lamb, living in Summer township, Guilford county, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. He went to his meadow where some men were mowing and without any notice he fell and soon expired. He was about 70 years of age and was well known in the county as one of its best citizens. He was apparently as well as usual and the cause of death is unknown; though it was no doubt due to heart trouble.

— Clinton Democrat: Mr. John Robinson, second and only son of Mr. Abner Robinson, of South Clinton, is critically ill of blood poisoning at the house of his father. Only a week ago his brother, Mr. William Robinson, died of this trouble, and he is supposed to have contracted it from his brother. His condition was somewhat improved when last heard from Tuesday. ——Mr. J. J. Matthis had a man named Harry Norris, who claimed to be an Englishman, working for him last week and went off one day, leaving Norris in charge. On returning he found that Norris had skipped, carrying with him about all of Mr. Matthis' good clothes, shoes, hats, shirts, etc., with him. Norris left his tattered "duds" in place of them. He claimed to be wholly sanctified and Mr. Matthis placed confidence in him on that account.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— The library of a New Jersey minister is to be sold to pay his debts, but his congregation is still able to raise money to send to the heathen in foreign climes.—Washington Post, Ind.

—— English investors in American securites evidently have no faith in the claim that prosperity is returning. Within the past few weeks London has unloaded thousands of shares of American stocks on the American market. The average London daily sales for some time past are estimated at 20,000 to 30, 000 shares.—Knoxville Tribune, Dem.

—— Boston is the principal port of entry for wool in the country and yet the Dingley tariff on wool, which it was declared would bring $15,000,000 annually into the treasury, yielded only $2 there last week. This shows that the importers and manufacturers laid in an immense supply of wool before the Dingley bill passed to avoid the payment of a duty; therefore there will be very little revenue from the tax on wool for the next year or two.—New Orleans States, Dem.

—— Intimations are thrown out by some of the Republican leaders that the anticipated increase of revenue from the new tariff will not be sufficient to prevent a large deficit in the present fiscal year, and that it may be necessary to resort to an issue of bonds. Fortunately, a large balance still remains in the Treasury from the proceeds of the last loan; and this will doubtless prove sufficient to cover the deficit, without resorting to a loan. Extravagance of expenditure by Congress is what is causing a void in the Treasury which no protective tariff is capable of filling.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

RECKLESS NAT GOODWIN.

An Illustration of How the Comedian Has Money to Burn.

A story I have just heard anent Nat Goodwin is but another instance of his reckless generosity and constant desire to burn money upon all possible occasions.

Nat had been in the habit of passing part of his time at a certain hostelry—that is all the description necessary of the place—presided over by a fat, good natured German. They had known each other well and were on excellent terms. It came about one day, during the broaching of a bill, that Mr. Goodwin disputed an item of $50. In doing so he was morally certain that the indebtedness was not his. Mine host was equally sure on his side of the centrary. The dispute waxed hot and heavy.

"See here," said Goodwin, "I don't care for a trifling amount like $50. It's the principle of the thing, that's all. Just the principle of the thing."

"Der same vay mit me," retorted the landlord. "I dond't care me for $100,000."

"Perhaps not," doubted the comedian. "But I'd sooner throw the money away or burn it than give it to you when I don't owe it to you."

"Ah," exclaimed the German sarcastically. "You haf money to burn, eh? Vell, I dond't believe me dot."

"Is that so?" returned Nat. "Well, now, I'll tell you what I'll do with you. I'll burn $50 right here before your eyes if you'll receipt the bill."

"By Chiminy!" said the host. "I'll yoost go you vonce."

Without another word Nat Goodwin took his checkbook out of his pocket, filled out a check for $50, tore it out, applied a lighted match to it, and held it until it was reduced to ashes.

The German, who had watched the process with bulging eyes, banged a rubber stamp on the disputed bill, scrawled his signature across it and said with a sigh:

"Chumping dividendts! You cand't get aheadt chf dese actor fellows nohow."—New York Journal.

SHAKING WITH 60,000.

The "God Bless You!" of Honest Hearted People a Benediction.

In an article describing "The Social Life of the President" in The Ladies' Home Journal ex-President Harrison tells of the fatigues of handshaking and also of the benefits of being brought in contact with the good, honest hearted people of the country. "In the first two weeks of an administration," he says, "the president shakes hands with from 40,000 to 60,000 persons. The physical drain of this is very great, and if the president is not an instructed handshaker a lame arm and a swollen hand soon result. This may be largely or entirely avoided by using President Hayes' method—take the hand extended to you and grip it before your hand is gripped. It is the passive hand that gets hurt. It has been suggested that a nod or bow should be substituted for the handshake, but it would be quite as admissible to suggest a revision of the Declaration of Independence.

"The interest which multitudes attach to a handshake with the president is so great that people will endure the greatest discomfort and not a little peril to life or limb to attain it. These are not the office seekers, but the good, honest hearted, patriotic people whose 'God bless you' is a prayer and a benediction. They come to Washington for the inauguration, and later with excursions, but they are mostly to be found near their own homes. They come out to meet the president when he takes a journey, and his contact with them and their unselfish and even affectionate interest in him revive his courage and elevate his purposes. Mr. Lincoln is said to have called these popular receptions his 'public opinion baths.'"

THE WORLD'S BLIND.

Curious Facts About the Sightless and the Care Taken of Them In Various Lands.

A paragraph is traveling about to the effect that the world's blind are computed to number 1,000,000—about one sightless person to every 1,500 inhabitants. If the proportion of sightless persons were the same in every country, or substantially so, it would be easier to conclude that blindness is due to causes which neither skill nor foresight can prevent. But the truth of the matter, as has been pointed out by a distinguished German oculist, is that the great majority of cases of blindness are due to fever, and the same authorities declare that 75 per cent of the afflicted persons could have retained their sight had they been properly treated.

Some figures in corroboration of this are supplied by the official statistics of both England and France. By the last reports there were 23,000 sightless persons in England, the average being 870 for each 1,000,000 inhabitants. The percentage of blind persons among infants of less than 5 years was 166 for each 1,000,000; between 5 and 15 it rose to 288; between 20 and 25 to 422; between 45 and 60 to 1,625, and above 65 years of age 7,000 for each 1,000,000 inhabitants. Similarly in France the official figures show that only one-sixth of the sightless were born blind, and five-sixths became blind through illness or accident. The French official figures further show that of those born blind 65 per cent were male and only 35 per cent female children. Another curious result shown by the figures is found in the fact that while the number of blind male and blind female adults was substantially the same, the number of sightless married men in France is double the number of sightless married women. Less than 10 per cent of the total number of sightless persons in France by the last report were under the age of 21.

Russia and Egypt are the two countries in which blind persons constitute the largest proportionate number of the total population—in Russia, on account of the lack of experienced medical attention, and in Egypt on account of ophthalmia, due to the movement of the sand by the wind, or, more properly, to the irritation caused by this unusual local condition, which has made ophthalmia general.

There were at last accounts nearly 200,000 blind persons in European Russia, the proportion being highest in the northern provinces and conspicuously so in Finland, where the prevalence of blindness, four times greater than the general average in Europe, is ascribed to the flatness of the country and the imperfect ventilation of the huts used by the peasantry. Many of these huts are either without chimneys or are supplied with primitive chimneys, which do not draw, and the escape of the smoke into the living apartments has a marked tendency to aggravate all eye troubles. Though more than half the blind population of Europe is to be found in Russia there are only 25 asylums for the blind in that empire, one-tenth of the total number in Europe. Though the number of blind persons in the United States is less than one-third as large as the number in Russia, the number of inmates of blind asylums in the United States is larger than in any other country of the world. By the last reports the total number of pupils in institutions for the blind in the United States was 3,489, and the grounds and buildings devoted to their use were valued at $6,000,000.—New York Sun.

Du Maurier's Joke Pots.

Du Maurier has been much written about in the press by men pretending to be his most intimate friends, though in one or two conspicuous instances the family of the late lamented were rather surprised at this presumption. One of Du Maurier's institutions was a pair of vases which he called his "joke pots." He used to receive a large number of contributions from English and American friends, all purporting to be true and worthy of an illustration by him. I know at least several instances where friends of mine have sent him texts which he very soon afterward used to good advantage. As these contributions arrived he threw them into one of these "joke pots" by way of filling—a new kind of pigeonhole. Then when a moment arrived in which he had to scratch his head for a subject, he would dip his hand, or rather his arm, into this lottery and fish up one contribution after the other until he found one that might be regarded as a prize ticket.

In order that he might insure himself against repetition he observed the routine of never putting a contribution back into the same "joke pot" from which he had extracted it, but deposited it in the second vase, until the first one had been cleared. Then he attacked the second one and emptied all the lottery slips back into the first, and so on, daily weeding out the worthless ones and refreshing his memory as to those best adapted to his purpose. The fact that these two "joke pots" were kept so well supplied by friends who volunteered their contributions is in itself ample testimony to the personal charm widely exercised by this warm hearted master of black and white.—Harper's Weekly.

X Ray Envelopes.

Envelopes lined with tin foil will possibly be a fad in the near future, if experiments with the Roentgen ray continue. It has already been demonstrated that the contents of a sealed letter, inclosed in the ordinary envelope, may be photographed. Le Gaulois, a French paper, has photographed such private matter in 15 seconds. By using envelopes lined with tin foil we could defy the X rays in the hands of the inquisitive.

Hakluyt's Zeal.

The great work of Hakluyt is the "Principal Navigations," in three folio volumes, a monument of useful labor. Nothing could stop or daunt him when there was a chance of obtaining new information. He rode 200 miles to have an interview with the last survivor of Master Hore's expedition to America in 1536. He saved numerous journals and narratives from destruction and the deeds they record from oblivion. His work gave a stimulus to colonial and to maritime enterprise, and it inspired our literature. Shakespeare owed much to Hakluyt's "Principal Navigations." Milton owed much more. As the years passed on Richard Hakluyt, in his own quaint language, continued "to wade still further and further in the sweet studie of the historie of cosmographie," and he achieved his great task, which was, in his own words, "to incorporate into one body the torn and scattered limbs of our ancient and late navigations by sea." He declared geography and chronology to be the sun and moon, the right eye and the left of all history.—Geographical Journal.

A Dandelion.

On one wan, wintry day I found on the south side of the tower a dandelion—a little bit of God's sunshine, only a dandelion—"a nawsty weed," as an English woman once told me. "Nawsty weed!" Why, the very heart of the sunlight is gathered into its golden petals. Do you wonder that I kissed the little flower nestling at the tower's base that midwinter day as I stopped and plucked it for my boutonniere? Perfect of its kind, as all God's works. What he begins he finishes. Did you ever see anything of his making unfinished? The leaf of the rose, the sting of the bee, the bird's feather—each is complete, perfect.—Henry C. McCook.

An Extenuating Circumstance.

"What are they?"

"The water was carefully boiled."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BLOTTING PAPER.

And Something About the Obsolete Sand Boxes and Sand.

In England they use a thin blotting paper; here we use mainly a thick blotter. Such thin blotting paper as is used here is chiefly for blotting leaves in books. Here we use on a desk a sheet of blotting paper 19 by 24 inches, the standard size, which may be turned over when one side is pretty well filled with ink. In England the thin blotting paper is folded, a number of sheets together, making a sort of pad, something larger than legal cap paper, and when a leaf gets saturated with ink it is torn off.

Blotting paper is not new, but it was first made in this country only about 40 years ago. Before that time we used some of the thin English blotting paper, imported, but more commonly, to prevent ink from blotting, we used sand, which was poured upon the written sheet out of a sand box. The sand box was a common article of desk furniture, as the wafer box was at one time, and almost as commonly seen as the inkstand. It was made sometimes of tin, sometimes of wood. It was perhaps 3 inches in height and maybe 2½ inches across the top, where its diameter was greatest. It was something like a pepper box in the manner of its use, but as to shape, instead of having a convex top, it had a concave top, like a little saucer. The bottom of this saucer was perforated. The box was filled with sand through these perforations. When the box was used, sand was poured from it upon the writing. A little of the sand adhered to the fresh ink and kept it from blotting. Very much the greater part of the sand poured out lay scattered upon the paper. Lifting the book or paper, the surplus sand was poured back into the box.

Many of the wooden sand boxes were handsomely turned articles. The sand used was a peculiar, fine black sand of uniform grain, brought from Lake George, in this state.

At the time of the civil war in this country blotting paper had come into comparatively common use. It is only within 15 or 20 years, however, that it has come into the wide and very nearly general use of the present time. Now the sales of it increase with the population or more rapidly. There are American paper mills devoted wholly to the manufacture of blotting paper, and their products amount to thousands of tons annually, and American blotting paper is now an article of export. We still import a little English blotting paper, but only a very little, not enough to cut any figure in the market.

The very best blotting paper is made wholly of cotton rags. Some poorer grades are made partly of wood pulp, and with it may be some clay. Such papers, as they dry out, become still less absorbent. The addition of dyes to blotting paper makes it less absorbent. English blotting paper is made usually of from 20 to 40 pounds to the ream. American blotting paper is made from 40 to 150 pounds to the ream. Blotting paper colors are white, blue, granite (a very light gray), yellow and pink. It is made in various shades of these colors. There is sold of white blotting paper ten times as much as of any other color.

Some of the calenders used in calendering cloths are made of blotting paper, sheets of which are pressed together to form a roll.

There still comes now and then to the wholesale stationery dealer in New York a call for Lake George sand, showing that there are yet some users of the old time sand box, but these calls are now so rare that they are no longer supplied, and the sand boxes have long since ceased to be a part of the wholesale stationer's stock. These, however, may still be found at some retail dealers, a few left over from years ago, and occasionally one of these is sold. A city stationer sold one only the other day, but it was not to be actually used as a sand box; it was to finish out the equipment of an old fashioned desk.—New York Sun.

Weighing Living Fish.

A visitor at the aquarium who had wondered how they managed to get the weight of a live fish learned that that was really a very simple thing to do. The fish is put into a pail of water, which is weighed with the fish in it. Then the fish is taken out and pail and water are weighed without it.—New York Sun.

A MAN OF APPETITE.

AN AWFUL ORDEAL FOR A DYSPEPTIC LITTLE LAWYER.

Went Into the Restaurant Just to Have a Few Oysters—Met Mr. Grump, the Brewer, Who Was Lunching a Little Before Going Home to Supper.

"There used to be a famous place for these things down in Atlanta," remarked the portly gentleman as he cautiously eyed the Welsh rabbit and sipped his musty ale.

"Why, don't these suit you?" asked the man who had never traveled.

"Oh, yes, fine, but I was just thinking of a little incident that occurred there."

"A story, is it? Well, let's have it."

"It's not much of a story, but I will tell it the best I can. You see, the place I spoke of was kept by a man named Beirmister, and was not only famous for its Welsh rabbits, but for its oysters and hard crabs as well. Delicious they were too.

"There was a dyspeptic little lawyer around town, sharp and shrewd, but a martyr to the stomach. He used to go around with the boys until some one would suggest going over to Beirmister's and getting some crabs and beer; then you could count the lawyer out. The boys would try to persuade him by telling him how delightful were the crabs, how succulent the oysters, but the lawyer would flee from them in terror at the thought.

"About 5 o'clock one fine afternoon in the early spring a friend and myself were journeying toward Beirmister's when we met the dyspeptic lawyer. As usual, he stopped us for a little chat, and we walked down the street together. In a few moments we were in front of Beirmister's, and my friend, taking a different tack, persuaded the little lawyer to enter with us on the plea that we would find no one in at this time of day and that we were only going to eat a few oysters.

"Once inside, we found the place crowded. The seats at the tables were all occupied, except at one table, over in a far corner of the room, at which there were three vacant chairs, the fourth being occupied by a fat German brewer named Grump. We knew Grump, and so went to this table. I introduced the lawyer—Blakely, I believe his name was—to the brewer and ordered beer for the crowd. The lawyer protested, so we left him out.

"'Mr. Grump,' I remarked, 'we are about to have a few oysters. Won't you join us?'

"'Vell, you see, I have alretty sometʼing ordered.'

"'Oh, that's all right,' I insisted. 'A few oysters will give you an appetite.'

"'Is dot so? Yah, I take me a few—chust von leetle dozen.'

"My friend had been engaged in an earnest conversation with the lawyer while I was talking to the jolly old German, and when the waiter came with the beers he told him to bring some crabs, 2½ dozen oysters on the shell and a glass of hot water. He had persuaded Blakely to try some oysters.

"At Beirmister's when an order was given for crabs they invariably brought a dozen, and you paid for as many as you consumed out of that number. The waiter soon returned with oysters, crabs and hot water. In the meantime Grump, who was a great talker, had struck up a conversation with the lawyer, and they were cracking jokes at a great rate.

"Blakely's courage fell when the oysters were placed before him. He manfully drank the hot water and commenced to imitate Grump's heroic style of eating oysters. He managed to down two and then laid his fork gently by his plate and fastened his eyes on Grump. With the aid of a few glassfuls of beer the brewer's oysters had vanished. My friend had managed to get away with two crabs and insisted that Grump help him dispose of the remainder. I was still busy with my dozen oysters.

"'Vell, I help you some,' said Grump, and picking up a knife he went at those crabs like a darky shucking oysters. The dyspeptic watched him as if fascinated and remarked in a sneering tone that came straight from the stomach:

"'You have a good appetite, Mr. Grump.'

"'Yah, I tʼink pretty goot,' and he actively went for another crab. The dish was cleared in a few moments, and I made a mental note that Grump had eaten nine crabs, a dozen large oysters, and drank ten glasses of beer. When the crabs were no more, Grump called to a waiter:

"'Here, Franz, I am waiting.'

"Franz disappeared, and in a few moments brought in a large Welsh rabbit and deposited it before Grump. I could see the little lawyer shrink from the odor wafted across the table, but he was game and would have staid at that table until he died. Grump insisted that we share the dish with him, but all hands refused.

"With apparent relish and a fresh glass of beer he attacked the rabbit, and in an incredibly short time the dish was clear of the least particle. Grump wiped his mouth, folded his napkin, and called for another round of beers. If I had not had a reputation to sustain, I would have refused, but as it was we drained the glasses.

"'Now, I must home be going,' remarked Grump, rising.

"'What's your hurry?' asked the dyspeptic lawyer in his most sarcastic tones. 'Do stay and have something else.'

"'Nein. I must to mein supper go,' answered the German.

"The dyspeptic wilted. Now, if you are looking for a fight, just tell that little lawyer that Grump wants him to eat supper with him. You'll get it quick and strong."—Washington Post.

Washington Well Fortified.

In view of the fact that the national capital was once taken and burned by a foreign enemy it is reassuring to know that a calamity so humiliating is not likely to occur again, even in case of sudden war.

Washington is the best defended city in the country. A hostile fleet could not now ascend the Potomac, as was done in 1814, when President Madison and his wife were compelled to make a hurried escape across the Potomac to avoid capture by the British.

For military and prudential reasons little has been allowed to be made known concerning the new works and the heavy ordnance recently installed below the city, but for some years engineers have been busy at the river forts. Some very formidable guns are now in position there, and a system of torpedo defenses has been perfected which would render the approach of an enemy's warships within 12 miles of Washington practically impossible.

The defensive works are located at the "elbow," or turn, of the Potomac where old Forts Washington and Sheridan stood, and where at one point the channel for vessels of deep draft is but 800 yards wide.

The guns are protected on the water side by emplacement walls of stone and concrete 70 feet thick, and on the land side by redoubts for infantry.

The rapidly increasing wealth and importance of Washington, the grand new public buildings and the vast sums of money and bullion in the treasury render these protective and defensive measures a matter of national importance and necessity.—Youth's Companion.

The Ladies of Constantinople.

It was amusing to see negresses with the thickest of lips veiled. All the pretty faces were more or less painted and the eyelids and eyebrows pencilled. The quality of the paint showed the quality of the lady. Poor women daub themselves with horrid pigments. No Turkish gentleman goes out to walk with his wife. To do so would be counted in the highest degree absurd. At most she is followed by a slave. But, wrapped up in the ugly black silk feridje, she can go where she pleases and alone. No man would dream of looking at a veiled lady in a feridje. Were a Giaour to scan her face, he would run a risk of being massacred. Shopping is a feminine pastime. Another is holding receptions, which, of course, ladies only attend. Munching sweetmeats renders Constantinople belles grossly fat while still young and rather spoils their teeth. All over the east teeth are even, white and of medium size and mouths well shaped. They are mouths made for laughter, gormandizing and sensual love. Eastern women are far better looking in youth than western. Those of Stamboul are the least graceful. They are seldom neat about the ankles. Their stockings are not well drawn up, their shoes are a world too big, and their gait is heavy and shuffling.—London Truth.

Worth While.

Dr. Anna Robertson Brown, speaking in Philadelphia to a branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, said upon the topic "What Is Worth While?" "We may drop pretense. Eternity is not good for shams. Whatever we really are let us be that in all fearlessness. Whatever we are not that let us cease striving to seem to be. If we can rid ourselves of all untruth of word, manner, mode of life and thinking, we shall rid our lives of much rubbish, restlessness and fear. We may drop worry. The serene soul is strong. Worry is an infirmity, a spiritual nearsightedness, a fumbling way of looking at things and of magnifying their value. True spiritual vision sweeps the universe and sees things in their right proportion."

Hon. Edward Echols Nominated For Lieutenant Governor—A. J. Montague Attorney General—The Proposition to Nominate United States Senators By Primaries Defeated By a Decisive Vote.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ROANOKE, VA., August 13.—After electing Hon. Edward Echols as the candidate for Lieutenant Governor, the Democratic State convention, at a late hour last night, took a recess until 10 a. m. to-day.

This morning, as soon as the second day's session had been called to order, the following were put in nomination for Attorney General: A. J. Montague, F. R. Lassiter, W. R. Alexander, R. R. Pollard and Lloyd T. Smith.

The first and second ballots resulted in a failure to nominate, but with Montague leading.

Before the result of the third ballot was announced, it was seen that Montague had received enough votes to nominate, and his nomination was made by acclamation. A recess was then taken.

At the afternoon session Senator Daniel, the chairman of the committee on resolutions, resumed the reading of the platform, which had been interrupted at the morning session yesterday by speeches of nomination for Attorney General. The platform proper, the Senator explained, was unanimously adopted by the committee. The separate resolution providing for the nomination of United States Senators by primary was adopted by the committee by a vote of fifteen to fourteen. The convention adopted the platform proper and then considered the resolution concerning the Senatorial plan.

Secretary Bigger, at this point, read a resolution unanimously adopted by the committee cordially and heartily endorsing the course in the Senate of "our beloved Senator, John W. Daniel, and we pledge ourselves not to support for the Legislature any candidate who is opposed to his re-election." This resolution the convention adopted without a dissenting vote.

Senator Daniel eloquently acknowledged the honor paid him. It was, he declared, one of the highest tributes that could be paid a man by a noble people. His speech was received with applause.

The convention took up the resolution regarding the nomination of Senators by primaries. The efforts of the friends of the proposition to limit debate to an hour to each side was defeated.

Hon. W. A. Jones, of the First district, opened the discussion in favor of the committee's report, and Senator Daniel, who led the opposition before the committee on resolutions last evening, followed Mr. Jones.

Senator Daniel closed with an eloquent argument against the adoption of the committee's report. The vote, on a demand for the pending question, resulted in the defeat of the committee's report by a vote of 850 to 609.

At 8 40 the convention adjourned sine die.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

A Brisk Demand—Buyers Beginning to Take Goods at Advanced Prices.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, August 13.—The market continues active in all lines. The presence of many buyers in jobbing houses has increased interest in all lines, both in cottons and woollens. These buyers have kept jobbers busy, and sales have been of great magnitude. At first hands there has been a brisk demand, and buyers are beginning to take goods at the advanced prices. In staple cottons the market is firm. New York Mills wide sheetings have been advanced from ¼ to 1c per yard; Atlantic 4 4 brown sheetings have been advanced ¼c per yard. Other advances have been made, and still others are to follow in the near future. The market for bleached goods is still active. Sales of 100,000 pieces at 9½c, spots and early delivery, were reported late yesterday afternoon from Fall River. To day sellers are refusing bids of this sort, and a stronger market is expected. The sales of the week will be heavy, and an inroad of importance into stocks held by manufacturers will be made. Prints are generally firm. Woollen goods in all departments are meeting with favor.

FINED AND SENT TO JAIL.

Sixty-five Negroes Who Tried to Beat Their Way on a Railroad Train in Maryland.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, August 13.—Sixty-five negroes were arrested to-day, fined $10 each and sent to jail in default, for trying to beat the Western Maryland Railroad out of a ride. Many of them are women. For some time past it has been the practice among these negroes to board excursion trains and refuse to pay their fares after leaving the city limit. This morning forty policemen boarded one of these trains and at a point just outside of town it was stopped on a high trestle. Then each person who failed to produce a ticket was arrested, loaded into a box car and brought back to town, where all were arraigned and tried.

THE MINERS TROUBLES.

A SWEEPING INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST THE STRIKERS.

Prohibiting Their Assembling, Marching or Encamping in Proximity to Homes of Miners—Resistance to the Order Expected by the Operators—Then Militia Will Be Called Out.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PITTSBURG, August 13.—Sweeping and far-reaching injunctions now figure in the coal miners' strike in the Pittsburg district. The developments of to-day tend to make the situation a strained one, and it appears that a crisis is near at hand.

The strikers have demonstrated that the assemblages, marches and missionary work have materially affected the output of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company, while at the same time public sympathy has been enlisted in their cause. The sheriff's proclamation issued two weeks ago restraining them from assembling and marching has been a dead letter, and the marches have been continued daily. No disturbance of any kind has occurred, the officials of the miners contriving through the whole time to keep their men within peaceful bounds.

A preliminary injunction was issued to-day by Judges Collier and Stowe, which now brings the matter to the county courts for settlement. The order includes President Ratchford and Secretary Pierce of the United Mine Workers of America, and President Dolan and Secretary Warner of the Pittsburg district mine workers. The case will be heard on Monday morning, and the decision is looked forward to with much interest.

The miners and their officials claim that they are keeping within the law and have the right to assemble in peace and demonstrate to the world that they are being wronged by a rate of wages that keeps them constantly at the point of starvation; also, that they have a right to use their presence and influence among men who are militating against their interests by continuing at work.

The New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company, on the other hand, assert that the marches and assemblages are unlawful and a menace to their employes, many of whom, they say, are willing to work provided the strikers remain away.

Looking at the matter from this standpoint, the company made its radical move to-day in the courts to bring about a condition under which the company can operate its mines.

The much talked of bill for an injunction against the United Mine Workers that was to have been filed in the United States Courts, was filed in the county court about noon by counsel for the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company. The defendants named are the United Mine Workers of America, Patrick Dolan, president; Edward McKay, vice president; William Farmer, secretary and treasurer and others.

The plaintiff puts forth that it is a corporation under the laws of Pennsylvania, with a capital of a million dollars invested in coal lands of Pennsylvania. Three of their mines, employing 1,900 men, are at Plum Creek, Turtle Creek and Sandy Creek.

The bill then recites the conditions prevailing at the mines since the strike begun, and alleges that the strikers have paid no attention to the sheriff's proclamation, and that the lives of miners and the property of the company are in danger.

Judge Collier granted a preliminary injunction restraining order and enjoining the defendants from assembling, marching or encamping in proximity to the mines and houses of the miners for the purpose of intimidation, and with threats and opprobious words of preventing the miners of the plaintiffs from working. It further restrains the defendants from inducing or compelling any loyal miner to quit work. A hearing was fixed for August 16th.

The injunction is regarded as the most sweeping yet issued.

President Dolan expressed surprise when informed that it had been granted and added: "It will make no difference to us. We will not break camp and will go right along as usual until the matter is tested in the courts. We will stay there, regardless of every judge in Allegheny county and if they try to enforce the injunction they will have to build more jails to accommodate the men."

If the strikers continue their marches in the morning as they now say they will, in defiance of the injunction, capiases will be issued for the offenders on the charge of contempt of court. Should the injunction be enforced the strikers' camps around the DeArmitt mines will soon be extinct. The strikers, though excited over the turn of events, are in no wise disheartened.

Developments at Canonsburg are being watched closely. The avowed intention of the strikers to march to-morrow morning despite Judge McIlvaine's injunction is expected to result in bloodshed or the filling of the county prisons with the arrested miners.

The long talked of demonstration against the Westmoreland Company's mines has been abandoned by the miners after one day's trial, because of a lack of food. The attempt, it is said, will be repeated soon, when ample provisions will be carried along and a siege proclaimed and carried to a successful issue.

It is the intention of the officials of the court to try to forestall the customary march in the morning by going to the camps to-night and reading the injunction to the campers. If this is done the crisis will certainly be reached at about 4 o'clock in the morning, as the strikers appear determined to test their right to carry out their usual programme. It is said that when the deputies do start to enforce the injunction they will be compelled to arrest them all for contempt and that as fast as the men are placed in jail others will be brought into camp to take their places, and thus the deputies will be kept busy making arrests until the jails are overcrowded.

It is claimed by the strikers that this movement of the company is only another plan for getting the militia on the ground. When they find that the miners will not obey the injunction and that the jails are becoming crowded in this manner, it is expected that the sheriff will adjudge that his deputies are not sufficient to cope with the situation and he will be constrained to call out the militia. This is the view of the situation taken by the leaders of the strikers now in camps.

This evening the strikers at Plum Creek held a meeting and voted unanimously to hold the fort, but not to resist arrest. The resolutions say that if one man is arrested they will have to arrest all.

At 11.15 p. m. Sheriff Lowrey and his deputies, numbering 100, left Turtle Creek for Plum Creek. The distance they will have to travel is about twelve miles, and they expect to be on hand before the strikers march on Plum Creek. The sheriff is determined to carry out the order of the court, and says he will surely arrest the leaders as soon as the march begins. If new leaders are substituted they also will be gathered in. While the big majority of the strikers are willing to go to jail unresistingly there are a few of the hot heads who have announced that they will not be taken alive. This minority may be the means of causing strife in the morning.

PITTSBURG, August 13.—The camps of the striking miners near the mines of the Westmoreland and Penn Gas Coal Companies at Irwin, Pa., which were established yesterday, have broken up and all but ten or twelve of the men have gone back to their homes.

BRIDGEPORT, OHIO, August 13.—Three hundred miners from Wheeling Creek, Maynard and Barton, massed here last night and marched to the Riverside and Belmont mines. They succeeded in getting all the men out, and, returning, marched to Martin's Ferry to get the Laughlin miners out.

The Barton and Maynard men flagged the night freight and took possession, compelling the crew to carry them into this place.

GOLD PROSPECTORS.

Arrival of a Large and Well Equipped Party at Seattle En Route to the Klondyke.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SEATTLE, August 13.—One of the largest and best equipped of all the parties that have started for the Klondyke from Seattle this season has just arrived in the city from New England. The members are organized on a military basis, the captain being Arthur E. Seymour, son of a well known mind-reader, Charles H. Moseley, formerly of the Boston Herald, is secretary and A. E. Rogers, of Norwich, Conn., is treasurer. Each member of the party originally contributed $1,000 and each agrees to share alike in all the expenditures and profits of the expedition. Apart from these individuals the company has plenty of backing. They are the first organized party to leave Boston for the new gold fields, and their departure from that city on August 4th was the occasion for a demonstration, thousands of people assembling at the railway station to see them off.

Their outfit is one of the most elaborate and costly. There is nothing extravagant about it, but every necessary article is there and every one is of the best possible quality. The only things they brought with them from the east are some sheep-skin sleeping bags, which are of superior workmanship and of a unique and useful design. Their passage was engaged by telegraph some days ago on the steamer Humboldt, which is due to sail from Seattle for St. Michael's next Sunday morning and their tickets guarantee their arrival at Dawson City before the river is frozen up.

TACOMA, WASH., August 13.—Mrs. Eli A. Gage, Second President William Weare, of the North American Transportation Company, and William H. Hubbard, have engaged passage on the City of Topeka, which leaves Tacoma for Alaska on the 15th. They will go to Dawson City over the Chilcoot pass. The City of Seattle will take 500 passengers.

WHIRL-WIND AT CLEVELAND.

Water-Spouts on the Lake—Considerable Damage to Property.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CLEVELAND, August 13.—A strange phenomenon was seen by residents of this city at about 8 o'clock this morning. Five dark and enormous water-spouts were seen far out on the lake, moving in an easterly direction. One of them went traversing the distance from the western horizon, where they were first sighted by the lookout at the life-saving station, to the eastern horizon, where it finally disappeared and struck the shore in fifteen minutes. Two struck the shore near the foot of Willson avenue, while the others pursued their easterly course down the lake. The largest spouts struck the shore at the foot of Coe street with terrible force. The large gate of the Avery Stamping Company was twisted from its hinges and the huge timbers scattered in every direction. The shipping department of this plant is now being repaired and a large section of the roof was taken off.

A box car on the track at the side of the shipping house was drawn sixty feet one way on the track and then blown to the end of the track in the opposite direction. Windows were broken and several large sections of roofs from surrounding sheds were blown off. Then the force of the whirlwind, for such it was, seemed to spend itself.

The path seemed to be about 500 feet in width, and pursued a southeasterly course through the city. No one was injured.

AFFAIRS IN ECUADOR.

Another Conspiracy to Overthrow the Government Unearthed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, August 13.—A special from Panama to the Herald, says: Telegraphic advices from the Herald's correspondence in Guavaquil, Ecuador, state that a leading newspaper of that city, a semi-official organ, declares that another conspiracy to overthrow the government has been unearthed. The base of operations of the conspirators, it is asserted, is in the Peruvian frontier towns, and the leaders of the movement are Conservatives, Clericals and a few Liberal malcontents.

President Alfaro, who left Guavaquil for Quito on August 5th, has stopped at Quaranda, midway between the capital and Guavaquil. This is due, it is officially reported, to the illness of his wife, but there is a general belief that the real cause was a rumor that the conspirators would soon begin operations along the Peruvian frontier.

ANTHRAX BACTERIA.

Fatal Malady Imported from China in Cow Hides.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

DUBOIS, PA., August 13.—Within the last few days four deaths have occurred among the Falls Creek tannery employes, two miles from this city, and several others are reported very ill. Some time ago the tannery company received the first invoice of one hundred thousand hides imported from China. The hides were started through the process of tanning and the liquors drained into the creek. Not long afterwards several head of cattle running at large died and up to the present time a score have gone to the bone yard.

It was discovered that the cattle drank water from the creek. Some of the tannery employes were subsequently taken sick and four have died so far. Investigation revealed the fact that the hides were infected with anthrax bacteria. Only one man who has been afflicted has recovered. The disease proves fatal in five to eight days.

DEATH WON THE RACE.

Fatal Termination of a Run On a Racing Track at Mahanoy City.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MAHANOY CITY, PA., August 13—Death won out in the last lap of a 6¾ mile run on the track of the Mahanoy Athletic Association to-day. Clarence Anstock, an 18-year-old bicyclist, in training for races to be held Saturday, was about to leave the track when a spectator suggested that he run another lap. He got two-thirds of the way round when he fell from his wheel and expired almost immediately. Death was caused by heart-failure, incident upon over exertion.

TUG DAUNTLESS.

Erroneous Report That She Was Fired Upon by the Gunboat Wilmington.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSONVILLE FLA., Aug. 13.—The report that the tug Dauntless was fired upon yesterday by the gunboat Wilmington is erroneous. The tug was out on a brief trial trip and was passing the gunboat at a high speed when a blank cartridge was fired as a signal to lay to, which was immediately obeyed. An officer boarded the tug and inquired of her destination, and on learning the truth remained aboard and was cordially entertained by the owners of the tug.

FACTS!

We Copy From the "Dry Goods Chronicle" of July 24th, the Following

High Prices for Carpets.

"And talking of carpets and carpet people, are you fully aware of what the new tariff means to the carpet buyer? Under the McKinley bill the price of carpets was 10 cents higher than they are to-day, and the new duty, as provided by the Dingley bill, on raw materials that enter into the manufacture of carpets is higher than under the McKinley bill. Naturally prices have to go up. Present prices can last only until the present stock of raw material is exhausted. The stock of carpet wool on hand is very light. The wise buyer will place his order without delay. Carpets will never be so cheap again in the next three years."

"High Prices for All Woollen Goods."

"Nothing in the future can be more absolutely assured than higher prices for Woollen goods, and though it may be unduly delayed by trade conditions, there can be no mistake made in purchases on the present basis of values."

We have LADIES, CHILDREN'S and GENTLEMEN'S WOOLLEN UNDERWEAR at last year's prices, and we believe it will be to your advantage to buy your winter supply now.

We purchased during last Spring $5,000 worth of CARPETS, and offer them until the 1st of September at last year's prices.

We have a few BLANKETS which it will pay you to examine.
